

TRIES TO KILL TSAI HSUN

PRINCE WAS LEAVING HIS TRAIN AT OAKLAND MOLE LATE THIS AFTERNOON

Chinese Revolutionist Seized as the Prince Was Leaving His Train at Oakland Mole Late This Afternoon

San Francisco, Oct. 6. An attempt to assassinate Prince Tsai Hsun, head of the Chinese Naval Commission to the United States, as he left his special train at Oakland Mole late this afternoon, was frustrated by the quick wit and vigilance of Secret Service Agent Harry McMillan, who arrested George Fong, a Cantonese-born Chinese and a member of the Young China party, while drawing a pistol from his pocket.

Fong was among the immense throng which lined the station platform to greet the prince, and for the fact that the train failed to stop at the usual place in the train shed he would have been successful.

McMillan had been previously warned that an attempt might be made on the life of the distinguished visitor and was in the lookout. Fong, having been pointed out to him as a leading member of the Young China party.

As the engine passed the spot where it would usually stop Fong ran with the crowd in an effort to be on the ground when the prince alighted. As he took off his glove he was seized by McMillan and McMahon and hustled to a ferry-boat, while the prince and his party were escorted to the naval tug Inlandia. The arrest was made so quietly that not one of the large crowd either with the prince or among the commuters knew of it.

When the prisoner was searched on the tugboat a .38 calibre revolver with five cartridges in the chambers was found. Fong made no secret of his intentions when questioned by McMillan and declared that he intended to rid his country of one of its enemies.

After much persuasion Fong made a complete statement declaring that as a member of the Young China party he considered it his duty to kill the prince and aid the movement to free China of the rule of the Manchus. He declared that he hesitated to fire a shot on account of the large number of Americans who were in the way, that he did not want to hurt anybody but the prince.

Fong told a long story of the wrongs of his country, how he had been studying its recent history and had made up his mind to be a martyr for its cause. He said: "I am 31 years old and was born at 800 Dupont street, San Francisco. I work as a cook at the Theta Beta Phi Fraternity house in Berkeley. I am married and my wife and two-year-old child are at present in China. When the prince was here and when his brother, Prince Tsai, was here before him I heard a great deal about the wrongs of my country, and soon after Prince Tsai left for the East I made up my mind I would kill him and become a martyr to my country."

At a meeting of the Young China party held on the night of the reception at the Hotel Knickerbocker, and started out for a spin along Riverside Drive, with Charles Garbere running the machine. The steering wheel broke and before Garbere could shut off the power the machine cut diagonally across the street and into a large tree.

Some one who saw the accident called Police Headquarters. Before ambulances arrived an automobile carrying two women stopped beside the wrecked machine. The women wanted to take all three of the injured to the J. Hood Wright Hospital and were about to do so when the Woman's Hospital ambulance arrived. The automobile took Mr. and Mrs. Geran to the J. Hood Wright and Dr. Bartlett took Miss Geran to the Woman's Hospital in an ambulance.

MARRIED AT 83

John H. Waydell Takes a Bride of 50, His First Wife's Niece

John Henry Waydell, 83 years old and for fifty years the head of Waydell & Co., a cooperative stock commission house at 130 Pearl street, was married yesterday afternoon to Miss Josephine A. Chase, 50 years old, who is the niece of Mrs. Waydell, who died about four months ago. In 1907 Mr. and Mrs. Waydell celebrated their diamond wedding with a small family gathering at their apartment at 1292 Madison avenue.

Mr. Waydell went to his office as usual yesterday morning and spent most of the day there. He later entered the marriage license clerk's office with Miss Chase. An Alderman married them as soon as they had received their license.

The pair had not returned to Mr. Waydell's apartments at a late hour last night and none of Mr. Waydell's relatives could give any idea as to where they had gone.

CHIEF CROKER GETS NABBED

REALLY ARRESTED AT VAMPS PARADE IN NEW ROCHELLE

He's Now in the Custody of Alderman Le Count, but He'll Be on the Job Here if Needed Was a Judge at the Parade and Was Hurrying Away in His Auto

New Rochelle, Oct. 6.—Fire Chief Edward F. Croker of New York came out here today as the guest of the town to review a firemen's parade, but before he got more than a block on his way back to New York after the parade had been announced he was arrested. He spent half an hour as a prisoner in a police station and when finally he was released Sergeant Bals insisted that he go in the custody of an Alderman. To-night the officials of the town are getting ready to send to the chief testimonials of regret.

It was a parade of volunteer fire companies from towns in Westchester county and adjoining villages in Connecticut and on the far side of the Hudson. Chief Croker never in his life looked at a parade of vamps from the judge's stand until today and it was only his friendship for Chief Jim Ross that brought him here this afternoon. The week in New York was about the roughest the chief has ever known, but he stuck by his promise, made some time since, to be at the parade today.

But things have been happening so fast in New York that he felt that he ought to get back to town as soon as the parade had passed the stand. The other judges, ex-Mayor Raymond and Major Dugan, both in command at Fort Slocum, were down for a banquet at Glen Island, but the chief said he'd have to pass that by, for there was no telling what might be starting up in New York.

So the others set out for Glen Island and the chief walked to where his automobile was and gave the word to start for New York. His chauffeur started down a side street and in making a turn toward the city had to pass the line of the parade. The vamps and their apparatus were still in marching order, but the chief was in a hurry and he gave orders to his chauffeur to get through the parade whether or not.

But Policeman Chenoweth wouldn't have it so. He ordered the chief's chauffeur to stop. The chauffeur looked to Chief Croker for orders, and the chief told him to go ahead. At the same time he showed his Fire Department shield. That didn't mean anything to Chenoweth, so he jumped on the running board of the automobile.

Croker pointed to his guest of honor badge, but that didn't make any more impression than the chief's gold shield. "I don't care who you are, you're going to stop," said Chenoweth, stoutly. "No, I won't stop if you're President Taft," Croker said he wouldn't, by heck, and the chauffeur threw in his clutch. Then Chenoweth said the chief was arrested and he'd have to go to the station house. The chief went.

Sergeant Bernard Bals was on duty alone. Everybody else was either at the parade or else was on the way to Glen Island for the banquet. Bals scratched his head. Never in all his experience had he seen the chief of New York's Fire Department in custody. So he played for some time, taking the chief's pedigree with what professional zeal he could summon. Chenoweth stood by grinning. He interrupted the proceedings for an instant, though, to have a quiet talk with a young man who looked like a strong runner.

"Get down to Glen Island," he whispered, "and for the love of heaven bring me somebody who can tell me what's going on." Then he went back to the pedigree business. The young man set off to find Mayor Gilmore or ex-Mayor Raymond or Chief Jimmie Ross or somebody who knew all the laws about volunteer firemen's parades.

Down at Glen Island they were getting ready for the banquet. But everybody was mixing up with everybody else so fast that the young man couldn't pick out one of those highest in authority. But he found Alderman Le Count. He ran up to him panting out his news.

"What?" gasped the Alderman. "You don't say so? Come on, you're strutting mad."

The young man swore that it was the ghastly truth. The Alderman started back to New Rochelle as fast as he could. He found Bals still restraining the uneasy Croker. The sergeant and the Alderman had a quiet talk.

"But, Alderman," Bals was heard to reply, "there ain't no way of fixing up the case unless the chief goes in your custody."

That's the way Croker got off.

BROWNE DENIES BRIBERY

Tells Senate Committee He Did Not Buy Votes for Loring

CITIZENS. (Oct. 6.)—Lee Neil Browne, accused of bribing Illinois legislators to vote for William Lorimer for United States Senator and acquitted recently of that charge in the Criminal Court, took the witness stand in the Senatorial investigation late today and for the first time publicly began a denial of the charges made against him.

The minority leader began by disputing evidence given by legislators who accused him of bribery. He testified that about three weeks before Lorimer's election Speaker Shurtliff came to him and asked him whether he could "get the boys to vote for Lorimer." Meaning Browne's friends, he answered "I don't remember."

WOMAN THREATENED SCHIFF

THINKS HE FORCED HER OFF A CHARITY BOARD

She Tried to See Him Until He Was Forced to Get a Warrant for Her Arrest. He Believes Her Insane—The Lawyers Whom She Saw Couldn't Help Her

A warrant was issued yesterday by Magistrate Appleton in the Tombs court for the arrest of a woman who is said to have threatened the life of Jacob H. Schiff, the banker. The warrant was put into the hands of a detective for service, but it was said by laird Kresel, a lawyer, of 37 Wall street, who represented Mr. Schiff in the application for the warrant, that the woman's arrest probably would be deferred until to-day.

It is said that the woman who threatened Mr. Schiff is one who until recently had a place on the board of a charitable institution in which the banker had a large interest and to which he contributed. A short time ago the woman was displaced and she conceived the idea that Mr. Schiff was responsible.

Hereafter retirement preyed upon her mind, so it is reported, until she believed that Mr. Schiff had defamed her character. Acting on this belief she sought several interviews with the banker in the office of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., at 52 William street. At one of these interviews recently, at which a witness was present, the woman, it is alleged, declared that if she could not get justice done she would take the law into her own hands. On that occasion she threatened to do bodily harm to Mr. Schiff.

Subsequently she visited several lawyers downtown and attempted to have them take up her grievance by bringing proceedings against the banker. When she was unable to find an attorney willing to do this she renewed her threats by letter. It is said that she made an ineffectual attempt to see Mr. Schiff in his office within the last few days and that this renewal of her attempt to press her fancied grievance led Mr. Schiff to ask for her arrest.

The woman is described as one well known in the circle of Jewish charities. She did not hold a paid job in the management of the charitable institution from which she was recently retired. It was said yesterday by friends of Mr. Schiff that he was convinced that the woman's mind was deranged and that he had decided upon her arrest as the quickest means of bringing her before the proper authorities for examination as to her mental condition.

Mr. Kresel accompanied by a clerk from Mr. Schiff's office, appeared before Magistrate Appleton a few minutes before 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. With them was a lawyer who appeared as corroborating witness. As soon as the Magistrate had listened to the complaint he filled in the warrant and it was put into the hands of Detective Norman Fitzsimmons, who is assigned to the District Attorney's office. The detective and the clerk from Mr. Schiff's office hurried into a taxicab at the door of the Criminal Courts Building and went down Central street in the direction of the financial district.

DEAD MEN HURT IN GUN FIGHT

Two Other Men Hurt in the Back Room of a Tenderloin Saloon

Two men were killed and two injured last night in a gun fight in the Maryland, a saloon and back room resort for Tenderloin men and women at 32 West Twenty-eighth street.

When the West Thirtieth street police reserves got there they found one man lying dead on the floor of the rear room, with a bullet wound in the back of his head. The second dead man was near the entrance to the back room hallway. He had been shot through the front of the head.

The police haven't learned the names of the dead. The two injured men were Frank Venturi, 34 years old, of 2414 Third avenue, who was shot in the back, and James Howard, 42 years old, of 147 West 28th street, an electrician, who was shot in the side. Howard may be Dr. Morris took the two injured men to Bellevue.

The police had difficulty in finding out the cause of the shooting, but they correlated a score of women who had been in the back room and on the second floor of the building, where there was a piano and a large room. The saloon were pretty well shut up in the saloon.

WHO IS MRS. FRANCES MASON?

Looked Up in Boarding House Said She Was California Physician's Wife

Bellevue Hospital and Mrs. Elizabeth Radette, who keeps a boarding house at 117 West Forty-third street, tried without much success yesterday to learn the identity of a woman known only as Mrs. Frances Mason, who was removed from the boarding house to the hospital early yesterday morning suffering from cholera poisoning. She is not expected to recover.

The woman, who is of evident refinement and about 45 years old, went to the boarding house three weeks ago under the name of Mrs. Mason. She went out but little and had a caller she described as Mr. Mason, her brother-in-law. He saw her five or six times and remained only a few minutes each time.

Mrs. Radette found the woman unconscious in her room early yesterday morning and called in a physician who sent her to Bellevue. When the police heard about the case they had her made a prisoner. Mrs. Radette learned yesterday that in a conscious interval at the hospital the woman said she was the wife of a physician in Pasadena, Cal., and that she had come East with a man named Mason. Mrs. Radette wired the physician named and said last night that she got a reply stating that his wife was with him there, and that if any woman here pretended to be his wife she was an impostor.

COTTON LOCKOUT ENDED

British Employers and Operatives Reach Agreement on Fern Hill Strike

MANCHESTER, Oct. 6.—The lockout of cotton operatives is ended and the mills will start up again on October 10.

The masters and operatives reached an agreement on the disputed questions today.

MAJOR BACK AT ST. JAMES

Not Strong Enough Yet to Work Every Day at the City Hall

Mayor Gaynor was at the City Hall yesterday afternoon. He usually arrives at the hall by telephone to Robert Adamson, his private secretary, that he had gone to his country home at St. James and would remain there until Monday.

The exertion of returning so soon to his duties has not benefited him, and it was admitted yesterday by his friends that he is not yet strong enough to resume his work, especially just at this time, when there is so much to be done in connection with the protracted public hearings on the tentative budget.

It was noted in the City Hall that while the Mayor seemed to be his old self when he arrived at his office on Monday morning, he seemed to be very weary and tired when he left the building for his home on Wednesday afternoon. If he follows the course of those who are anxious for his complete recovery, he will take no part in the budget makeup and will content himself with visiting the City Hall a day or at most two days a week for some time to come.

ST. JAMES, L. I., Oct. 6.—The Mayor took a ten mile walk to-day over the roads besides going over his farm pretty thoroughly and inspecting the preparations for his complete recovery. He will take no part in the budget makeup and will content himself with visiting the City Hall a day or at most two days a week for some time to come.

ALLEGED TO HAVE TRIED TO GET OUTSIDE COUNCIL IN FRANCE VIA CANALS

Burlington, Vt., Oct. 6.—A report was sent to Washington to-day by Charles H. Darling of the Burlington district on the alleged smuggling of $400,000 worth of articles bought this year in Europe by F. H. Partridge of New York. Partridge left here to-day after an unsuccessful attempt to amend his declaration filed at Quebec last week. It is alleged that Partridge, who was accompanied by his wife and his ward, Miss Humphrey, came across on the Empress of Ireland early last week. They had six large trunks. According to the report Partridge claimed at Montreal that he was going to return at once to Europe but the same night the party took a sleeper for New York by way of Albany, Vt. On the train he told the inspector of the way that he was returning to Murray Bay, where he had been sent from Washington to help make a tariff law.

His trunks were held, however, and the Washington authorities directed that they be opened. The inspection revealed $160,000 worth of articles, bought this year, and $600 worth of foreign labels, bought on a previous trip. The dutiable articles consisted of, it is said, clothing.

Mr. Partridge has been in Burlington since Monday in a vain endeavor to amend his declaration, but Collector Darling was unable to do anything for him. The matter now rests with the authorities at Washington.

Mr. Partridge had not got back to New York last night. He is a member of the Union League and Republican clubs and of the New York Yacht Club.

BRICKLAYERS STRIKE OVER

Called Off by Mutual Agreement Old Rules to Be Restored

Both the lockout of ten unions of bricklayers by the Mason Builders Association and the strikes of bricklayers here and throughout the country were called off yesterday, an amicable arrangement having been reached between the international officers of the bricklayers and a committee of the association.

The strikes were declared off at a mass meeting of the bricklayers in Grand Central Palace and the announcement was received with cheers. Before the strikes were called off the announcement was made that the lockout was declared off. All the locked out and striking bricklayers were instructed to return to work to-day. The present trade agreement will continue in force until it expires at the end of this year. Members of the association who do work in other cities must conform to the local union conditions in those cities.

Alman A Caught Speeding on Land. Charles K. Hamilton, the aviator, was arrested for speeding on Hillside avenue in Queens borough yesterday and taken to the Jamaica precinct station. He gave $100 cash bail. The police say that he was doing thirty-two miles an hour in his automobile.

BIG DEAL IN COAL LAND

J. V. Thompson Said to Have Sold Out to Standard Oil Co. for $100,000,000

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 6. It was said here to-day that Joseph V. Thompson of Uniontown had just closed a deal by which he transfers to the Standard Oil Company 550,000 acres of coal land in Washington and Greene counties, Pa., and in six West Virginia counties.

The deal represents about $100,000,000. For fifteen years Thompson has been taking up coal options. In the early days of his activities he bought thousands of acres at $10 an acre. Of late years, however, the price has gone up, but he has seldom paid over $100 an acre. Returns over his Washington and Greene county coal at a little over $300 an acre and receives a good figure for his West Virginia holdings.

STORM SLOWS THE LINERS

Majestic Half a Day Late and Mauretania a Week

The White Star liner Majestic got in yesterday morning half a day late because of gales and heavy seas she bucked most of the way from Danzig's Rock. She shipped much green water and many of her passengers were seasick. The same sort of weather also retarded the progress of the Canarder Mauretania, which under the usual weather conditions at this season over the short northern course would have docked last evening. She will not get in until this morning. William R. Hearst is among her passengers.

Among the passengers by the Majestic were Irving L. Stone, Mrs. John Nash, otherwise Lillian Hawthorne, who as an intimate friend of the wife of Dr. Crippen gave the first information of the latter's disappearance, Lord Ritchie of Dundee and Herbert L. Griggs.

Among the voyagers by the Hamburg-American liner America, which sailed yesterday from Hamburg with all her stowage filled, were Dr. and Mrs. Henry Koepke, George Woodruff, Henry F. Shoemaker, F. W. Woodruff and Mrs. N. D. Woodruff.

NEW CODE OF LEGAL ETHICS

Proposed by Charles A. Boston to the County Lawyers Association

The New York County Lawyers Association, of which Alton B. Parker is president, heard Charles A. Boston explain a new code of legal ethics at a meeting at the association's rooms, 165 Broadway, last night. Mr. Boston is chairman of a committee that was appointed by the association to present such a code. In the last year, according to Mr. Boston, there have been complaints made in regard to the practice of 1,200 lawyers in New York county. Mr. Boston's proposed code would not permit a lawyer to accept as a client a man whom he knew to be guilty. Again, a lawyer could not solicit business nor advertise if this code went into effect, and furthermore it would prohibit the willful misreading of Judge or jury. Although many were present who did not seem to think such a code feasible the meeting adjourned without giving them a chance to express themselves. Mr. Boston's code will be printed and sent to the members of the association for their consideration.

DEAD MAN'S ACCOUNTS SHORT

H. H. Rogers Estate Finds That Atlas Tack Co. President Took $150,000

New Bedford, Mass., Oct. 6. An announcement was made here to-night that a shortage of from $130,000 to $150,000 had been discovered on the books of the Atlas Tack Company of Fairhaven, which is owned by the estate of the late Henry H. Rogers.

The shortage is blamed on the late George W. Weymouth, president and general manager of the company. Mr. Weymouth was killed at Bingham, Me., about a month ago when his automobile was upset after running wild down a steep hill. He served as Congressman from the Fourth Massachusetts district and retired from political life in 1901, at the request of Mr. Rogers to take charge of the tack concern.

The shortage was revealed through an investigation of its affairs by F. H. Broughton of New York, son-in-law of Mr. Rogers. No suspicion was held that there was anything wrong with Mr. Weymouth's accounts as president of the company. At the examining of the books found made in course of the settlement of the Rogers estate.

KILLED IN AUTO RACE

Driver's Head Crushed Flat in Collision of Cars

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 6. The first racing event of the Iowa Automobile Association terminated this afternoon with a tragedy when S. C. Mereworth had his head crushed almost flat in a collision with a machine driven by John Wallace. Half a dozen cars were going at a terrific rate in the closing event of the day. Mereworth sought to pass John Wallace, when the cars crashed into each other. One car driven by Thomas Smith coming directly behind, struck the other two and bounded clear over the fair ground fence, which was close by.

The accident was witnessed by 10,000 people. Wallace and Smith are both in critical condition.

BOMB IN THE BACK HALL

Door Blown Off to a Baby's Cradle Man Fell Into Hole in the Floor

A bomb went off a little after midnight last night in the back hallway of a tenement at 431 East Eleventh street. A panic followed in the tenement and the fire was rapidly taken up and repeated. Two priests, who read the placard expressed views uncomplimentary to the republicans and Prof. Bombarda. This aroused the anger of the crowd. The priests were hoisted and when they tried to escape they were stoned. They were pursued by the mob to the office of another newspaper, where they took refuge.

Rest of Portugal Holds Aloof—Government Was Taken by Surprise

Special Cable Despatch to The Sun

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The Lisbon correspondent of the Chronicle sends by way of Vigo, Spain, the first detailed story of the revolution. He escaped from Lisbon on October 5 on board a British steamer with a band of fugitives. He landed at Vigo on Thursday and there fled his despatch. He says:

"At the moment of telegraphing the revolutionary movement appears to be confined to Lisbon and the immediate neighborhood. The north, so far as I was able to ascertain, is indifferent in the sense that it has taken no active share in the rising.

"At Leixoes, the Atlantic port of Oporto, the political barometer was unchanged. It did not point to set fair it was at any rate quite steady. There has been no outbreak there, or, as I was informed, the royalist flag still floated from the coast guard station and on a little gunboat in the harbor, and it was displayed by the pilot vessels.
